

RECOVERY

Of Capt. Fred M. French
Seems Certain

Patient Was Resting Comfortably Today

Contemplated Suicide For Several Days

A message from the bedside of Capt. Fred M. French at Emergency hospital, Mansfield, Tuesday afternoon, stated that the man is resting comfortably today and that his recovery is expected. A nurse in charge of the patient all the time to see that he does not disturb the bandages about his neck as he has repeatedly stated that he wanted to die and it is feared that he might reopen the terrible wounds in his neck.

That Captain French had made up his mind several days ago to attempt suicide is evidenced from the following taken from the Mansfield News in the account of the attempted suicide:

Miss McDaniel, who discovered the wounded man was greatly shocked over her experience. She says she lives in the country and Saturday she met French in the hallway and noting that she was in street attire he remarked:

"You must be going some place."

"Yes, I'm going out on the farm," replied Miss McDaniel.

"Well, I ought to go home tomorrow myself but I am not going."

"I may be dead before that time," he also added as an after thought so it is concluded that he already had suicide on his mind then.

The girl did not think anything of these peculiar remarks at the time, but recalled them Monday morning.

French had with him two well worn suit cases. When the officers opened these in one they found a lot of advertising matter and two copies of the Mt. Vernon city directory. He carried a lot of stationery and on the envelopes was this:

"Fred M. French, directory publisher and compiler. Also general advertising. Mt. Vernon, Ohio."

SHARP COMMENDED

By Republican Paper And Chamber
Of Commerce Of Elyria

As showing what the Republicans of Elyria, Congressman Sharp's home city, think of him, the following is taken from the Elyria Telegram (Rep.):

"The Chamber of Commerce does well to indicate the appreciation of Elyria citizens for Congressman Sharp's achievement in securing a post office site appropriation. Notwithstanding that Lorain county has always furnished the republican majorities for this district and Elyria has always been overwhelmingly republican in state and national contests yet no republican congressman has found it possible or desirable to secure a government building for the town and it remained for our present representative to make the beginning.

"This is a matter in which the whole town is interested outside of any partisan politics and official recognition of the successful efforts of the congressman by the city's most representative body is a deserved tribute to efficient public service. Congressman Sharp should understand that the resolution of the directors of the chamber expresses the sentiment of Elyria's entire citizenship."

The resolutions adopted by the Chamber of Commerce of Elyria were as follows:

In view of the fact that The Elyria Chamber of Commerce has for a long time been greatly interested in securing an appropriation from Congress for the Federal Postoffice and through the efforts of Congressman Wm. G. Sharp such an appropriation has been provided for, now

Be it Resolved, That the Board of Directors, on behalf of the Chamber, do hereby express their hearty appreciation of the results of Mr. Sharp's efforts and extend to him the thanks of this organization.

The sum of $25,000 for a site for a local post office building has been provided for in the recent omnibus bill passed by congress.

NARROW

Escape From Death Had A
C., A. & C. Brakeman

(Orrville Crescent)

One of the narrowest escapes from instant death ever witnessed in Orrville occurred this morning at the Pennsylvania station when Hubert Deneshe, a C., A. & C. brakeman missed being ground to pieces by inches only.

He and Dennis Casey, another C., A. & C. employee, were about to cross the Pennsylvania tracks from the Rest House. They waited beside the tracks until one train had passed and then Deneshe started ahead to go up town. Just as he placed one foot on the track Casey shouted above the roar of a second train and Deneshe halted with one foot in the air. He drew back suddenly and as he took the step away from the rail a fast freight shot past him. The side of the engine was so near his body that if it did not brush his clothes, his imagination made him feel all the agonies of being brushed aside into a ditch.

For a moment he stood motionless, transfixed as by a sudden falling of memory and half of the train passed before he could retrace his steps.

For an hour after the incident he was unable to walk or control his emotions. Later in the day he and others, who at present are not at work because of a slack run of freight on the road, went to Millersburg to spend the day fishing.

PEOPLE

Will Hear The Senate's
Greatest Orator

When Dolliver Appears At
Hiawatha Lake Assembly
In August

While delivering an address at Hamilton, O., Sunday, Congressman James M. Cox of Dayton, O., declared Senator Bailey of Texas the greatest constitutional lawyer in the senate and that Senator Dolliver of Iowa is the greatest orator. Mt. Vernon and Knox county people will read this comment with interest because of the fact that Senator Dolliver is one of the Hiawatha assembly attractions. His subject will be "The Poor Boy's Country."

Senator Dolliver is the leading "insurgent" in the national congress, and his coming here will, without doubt, draw an immense crowd to Hiawatha. If the attendance is such as to overcrowd the auditorium a platform will be erected somewhere on the grounds so that all can hear this renowned orator to advantage.

Kaseby, who recently left San Francisco to visit a sister in Brooklyn, sits in the police station, his mind completely gone and talking incessantly of California. He was found on the streets and locked up for safety. In his pocket was a soiled letter, which said that Kaseby had relatives in California and the South, and a sister in Buffalo, ending with "If in trouble show this to the police." The letter states that he had been a trusted employee of the Santa Fe and had been given a leave of absence.

BREACH

Of Promise Suit Filed By Aged Spinster

Buffalo, N. Y., July 12—Mary Finnelly, 72 years old, began a $40,000 breach of promise suit here today against Fred A. Burr, a wealthy merchant of Canadesa, Allegheny county. The elderly spinster declares that the promise was made way back in 1876, and she says that she has grown tired of waiting and now thinks she is entitled to $40,000. Nearly half a century ago she was a domestic in the Burr family. She declares that the proposal was repeated in 1893, but that when it came to setting the day Burr failed to make good.

Justice Woodward was so amused by the antiquity of the alleged promise on which the suit is based that today he ordered the woman's lawyer to file a bill of particulars as to that promise.

Burr denies all the woman's allegations, except about her being employed by him. She is now a school teacher.

FARMER BOWS KNEE

TO THE "KING HOG"

(By W. C. Sylvester)

Kansas City, July 12—The greatest moneymaker on the farm during the past year has been the hog. The farmer with a carload of hogs was assured of an automobile, a trip to Europe, or more farm land. Never in modern history have hogs been sold at such high prices, on a strictly gold basis, of course, as during the past several months. There has been a reason; namely, the law of supply and demand. Early in the present year there were reports of a "hog shortage" from many hog-raising districts. And market receipts bore out the reports. From Jan. 1, 1910, to July 1, 1910, receipts at the five leading western markets—Chicago, Kansas City, Omaha, St. Louis and St. Joseph—were, in round numbers, two and one-fourth million head less than during the corresponding six months of 1909. Arrivals at the five big points in the first half of 1909 numbered 9,280,000. In the first half of 1910 receipts at the previously mentioned markets were 6,990,000. In other words, a growing population was fed on 75 per cent of the hogs that were consumed in the first six months of 1909. The direct effect of the decrease in hog receipts, while the population was unquestionably increasing, was a sharp advance in the market value of swine.

At the Kansas City stock yards the average cost of hogs for the first six months of 1909 was $6.64 per hundredweight. In the first half of 1910 the average cost at the same market was $9.31, showing a gain of $2.67 per hundredweight, or about 40 per cent. At all other markets the advance in prices was practically equal that at Kansas City. Thus, with a decrease of 25 per cent in receipts, and, according to the popular belief, many more mouths to feed, there came an increase in the market value of hogs of 40 per cent. It may be interesting to note that the average cost of all weights and all kinds of hogs at the Kansas City yards during the first half of the present year was 51 cents greater than the highest price ever paid at those yards previous to 1910. In 1882 a record was established at $8.80 per hundredweight. Never, until the present year, was it equaled or exceeded. An important factor in the hog industry is, of course, the cost of corn.

However, this gave feeders no worry during the past six months. At the end of June, 1910, corn was from 5 to 10 cents cheaper than at the end of June, 1909, while values of hogs were fully $1.00 higher, comparing prices at the same dates. And at the present time receipts of hogs in the West are slightly larger than a year ago. At the five leading Western markets, during the last week in June, a gain over last June of almost 35,000 head was shown in receipts.

Present conditions seem slightly bearish in the hog industry. Snow's estimate of the American corn crop promises a bumper. There are many pigs in the country being prepared for market, according to reports from most sections. Prices are almost abnormally high. The huge profits in hogs serve as a strong magnet to attract others to the industry. Indications seem bearish, not strongly bearish. The tone is uncertain, and there are few who believe that the high prices of March will be equaled. And there are still fewer who believe that hogs will be worth less than $8 per hundred in the country. At least for a year to come the profits in hogs will be highly satisfactory to the most greedy farmer.

Hogs alone give the farmer assurance that he will be able to continue his better habits of living, which he did not use to enjoy. There are pessimists who ask, "What will he do when the crash comes?" But the crash has not come. There are mouths to be fed, more mouths than there used to be.

COLT WEIGHED 15 POUNDS

(Allentown Cor. Philadelphia Record)
There was born on Colonel Harry C. Trexler's Shetland pony farm yesterday what is claimed to be the smallest colt in the world. It weighs only 15 pounds and is rather smaller than an ordinary fox terrier. In fact, many a baby is as big.

The colt, which is perfect in every way, began to kick up its heels in the liveliest fashion when it had reached the age of three hours. Like all the ponies on Colonel Trexler's farm, it is a standard-bred Shetland out of registered stock. It is not believed it will grow to be any larger than a setter dog.

Pauses In Doing Family Wash
To Run For Congress

Mrs. Kate R. O'Hare paused long enough over her washboard to tell a delegation of voters that she would be a candidate for congress from the Second Kansas congressional district, added a little more bluing to the water and went on with her washing. Once the family task was completed, Mrs. O'Hare dried her hands, put on her Sunday bonnet and started out making speeches. She has made fifty talks and promises to make more.

Mrs. O'Hare lives in Kansas City, Kan., and is a member of the Socialist party. In becoming a candidate for congress Mrs. O'Hare also wrote out her resignation, leaving the date blank. She did this, she said, so that if at any time she voted in favor of the trusts while a member of congress any voter of her district can fill the blank date and Mrs. O'Hare will step aside. All this if she is elected, of course.
